Dear Students:

Welcome to New York City and the 2019 Virtual Enterprises International Youth Business Summit!

Just by being here, you have already succeeded—succeeded in helping to shape your own future and in collaborating with your fellow students and teachers to create something tangible and dynamic. And, most importantly to HSBC and the many other leading companies that join us here today, you are helping us to feel optimistic about the bright future of business in America and around the world.

At HSBC, we have invested in VE since 1999 and at this year's International Trade Show, we are announcing an even more significant investment than ever before. Why has this been such a long and critical partnership for us? Because we truly believe that VE is unique in the way that it is preparing today's youth for the jobs of the future—some of which have yet to be invented.

In a study conducted by McKinsey Global Institute in June 2018, we learned that automation will accelerate the need for very specific workforce skills. Of course we see continued demand for advanced technological skills such as programming. But it is important to remember that the jobs of the future will also require increased social, emotional, and higher cognitive skills, such as creativity, critical thinking, and complex information processing. The experience that VE provides to students across the U.S. and other countries builds those exact skills.

The products and businesses you've created matter, but even more vital is the experience you have had in shaping those businesses by working together to overcome complex challenges and build something that will address a real need in the world.

So, as we come together in the thousands this week for the National Business Plan Competition, Global Business Challenge and International Trade Show, I challenge all of us to remember that we are more than our individual roles as students, teachers, business mentors, and peers. We are shaping the future for all of us here and millions of other young people. Let's work together to create a future that is innovative, sustainable, and one that enables people from all walks of life to achieve their dreams.

Sincerely,

Kelly W. Fisher
Head of Corporate Sustainability
HSBC Bank USA N.A.

WELCOME FROM THE PRESIDENT & VE BOARD OF DIRECTORS CHAIR

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the 2019 Virtual Enterprises International Youth Business Summit! Each year, this one-of-a-kind event brings together thousands of VE students from around the world to showcase the business and skills they have developed during the school year. Through business competitions, leadership and networking events, and an international trade exhibition, VE students actively engage in the "Future of Work"—a theme that is central to VE's mission.

Since the start of the 2018-19 school year, VE's staff, board of directors, and advisory council have continued to focus on this theme by exploring the most effective ways to prepare students for the 21st-century workplace and develop a talent pipeline for today's businesses. In addition to meeting with experts in areas such as workforce development, labor market analysis, and talent management, we have brought together industry leaders from a diverse set of companies—HSBC, Intuit, Deloitte, Viacom, Nielsen, Google, Amazon, Salesforce, among others—to keep the VE program up-to-date with the latest workforce insights and challenges so all young people have the opportunity to learn and succeed as they prepare for their futures.

It takes the talent and dedication of many people to bring VE to life every day by meeting new challenges and creating exciting opportunities for VE students. Administrators and teachers oversee the program at each school site and ensure that VE students develop the skills and competencies they need to own their futures. Our national and regional staff—supported by VE's National Board of Directors and National Advisory Council—continue to create life-changing opportunities for VE students. And our major business supporters—HSBC, Intuit, Deloitte, Viacom, and New York Life—not only help fund our activities, but also serve as volunteers both inside and outside the classroom. With the help and support of all these individuals, there are now 15,000 future business leaders in 430 schools across the U.S. who will combine the VE experience with their drive and passion to propel themselves into bright futures.

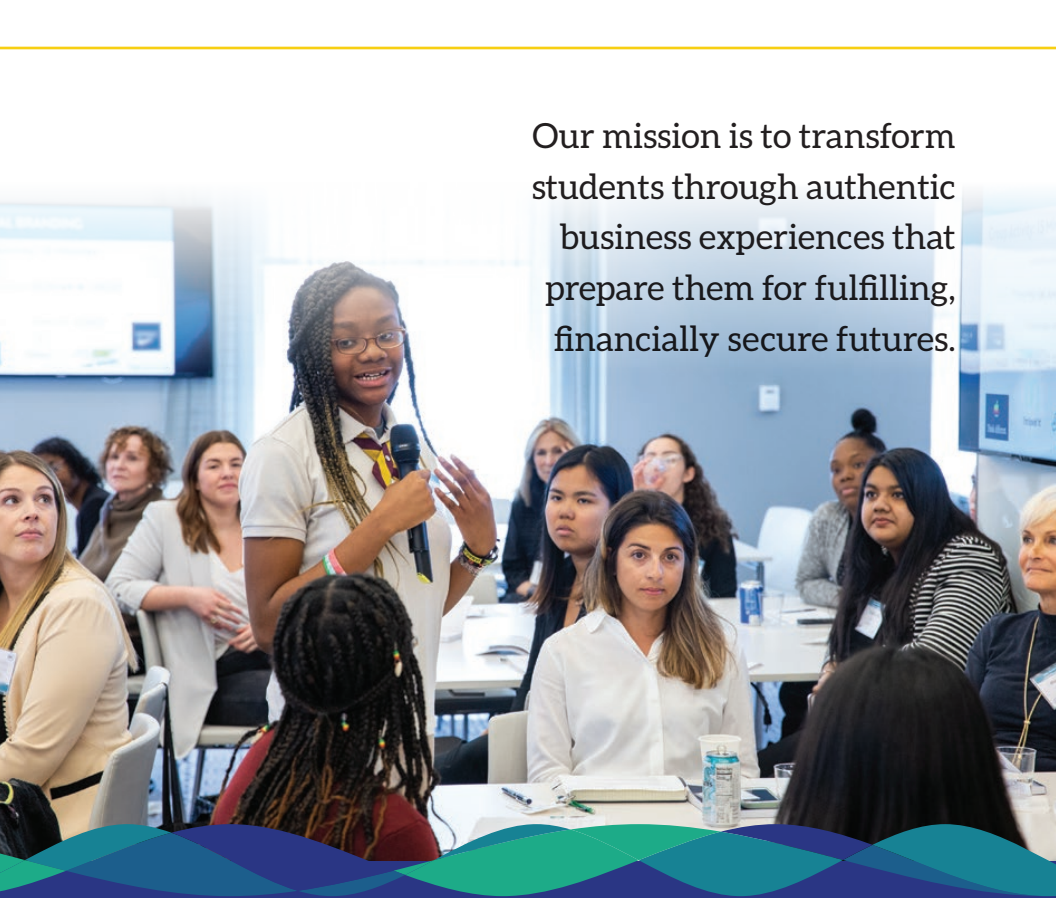

Finally, to the more than 5,000 students who have traveled to this year's Youth Business Summit—whether from down the street or across an ocean—welcome to an unforgettable week of authentic business experiences. The week's events present amazing opportunities to show what you know, who you are, and who you can be.

On behalf of everyone who makes VE work, we wish you an exciting and memorable stay in New York City!

Sincerely,

Nick Chapman
President
