We're in Good Company

What our partners say

"VE is unique in its way of preparing today's youth for jobs of the future - some of which have yet to be invented.

While technological skills are important for those careers, the higher cognitive skills like creativity, critical thinking, and complex information processing are vital, and are attributes honed through the VE program."

Maureen Gillan-Myer, Head of Human Resources, HSBC USA

"Starting my Fridays with VE is better than a double shot of espresso - the students bring such infectious energy and enthusiasm to their work.

It is so rewarding to watch them develop from the beginning to the end of the course as public speakers, problem solvers, colleagues and individuals. Each year I'm impressed by the creativity they bring to their business and products; it keeps me coming back YOU excited to see what the next class develops."
